

Are You Prepared?

Even if you can't prevent an earthquake from occurring, you can mitigate damage by making the right preparations.

Some necessary precautions are listed here:

- Know evacuation areas near home, school, and along your commuting route.
- Establish a common meeting place and method for contacting family members.
- Register with the Disaster Message Service. (Advance registration of e-mail address required).
- Assess your route home and the amount of time it would take to walk it (about 2.5km/hr in times of disaster).
- Confirm emergency evacuation sites at school and along your commuting route.
- Make a list of emergency contacts which include the university and friends.
- Secure furniture and appliances to walls and equip yourself with items from the checklist below.

Convenient items to have with you at all times

Classes During Times of Emergency

When the Japanese government or Japan Meteorological Agency issues a Tokai Earthquake Advisory or when public transportation becomes unavailable due to natural disasters or large accidents, or in other times of emergency, classes will be handled in the following manner.

1. If a Tokai Earthquake Advisory is issued

All classes will be canceled if a major earthquake is predicted in the Greater Tokyo and Tokai areas, and a Tokai Earthquake Advisory is issued by the Japanese government or the Japan Meteorological Agency. If the earthquake advisory is canceled without there being an actual earthquake, instructions from the university will be given via the Keio University website and/or by other means.

2. If trains and other forms of public transportation are suspended or in other times of emergency

If classes have to be canceled when transportation services are unavailable due to a major accident or natural disaster such as a typhoon, heavy rain, heavy snow, or earthquake, or in other times of emergency, instructions from the university will be given via the Keio University website and/or by other means. Information will be posted separately by each campus.

Notifications about Class Cancellations

When typhoons, heavy snows, or other natural disasters are expected

Morning class cancellations will be posted by 9 p.m. the night before. Information about afternoon class cancellations will either be posted together with morning cancellations or by 10 a.m. on the day in question.

When earthquakes or other unforeseeable circumstances occur

Information will be posted at the earliest opportunity.
